Press release

Vikan expands food-handling range with three new products

Vikan, the global leader in hygienic cleaning and food-handling tools, is pleased to announce a major expansion of its range of hygienic, ergonomic food-handling utensils.

The new products provide the food industry with an even more extensive range of application-specific tools that meet the most exacting needs.

Scooping, hoeing, pouring

The new products – an Ergonomic Scoop, a Push-Pull Hoe and a new Measuring Jug – all come in 5 colours and feature market-leading ergonomics, durability and functionality. Product-specific benefits include:

Ergonomic Scoop, 2 Litre

- Ergonomic handle positioning
- Flat bottom for stability
- Hygienic design

Push-Pull Hoe

- Maximum versatility
- Rugged, hygienic design
- Fits Vikan threaded handles

Measuring Jug, 2 Litre

- Excellent pouring control
- Easy-to-read transparent measuring scale
- Great ergonomics and durability

The single-source advantage

The new product launches make it easier than ever for food producers to rely on Vikan as a single-source supplier of all the hygienic food-handling utensils they are likely to need. "Food factories and processing plants have a lot to gain from buying all their food-handling utensils from a single supplier. For example, a single-source approach ensures colour-coding consistency and saves everyone time in the procurement process," says Jette Fruergaard, product manager for Vikan's Hygiene range.

New guide to food handling tools

In addition to the new products, Vikan has published a dedicated guide to understanding and selecting the right food-handling tools for different applications. The guide is free to download on Vikan.com.
